HIGHER RAILWAY RATES.

MOTOR TRANSPORT COMPETITION.

MR. EUGENE CHEN AND THE PILL ADVERTISEMENTS.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

London, January 24th.
In the course of the last few days I have an opportunity of hearing the opinion of some leading industrialists on the increase in railway rates which has just been sanctioned by the Railway Rates Tribunal. The view is held that the increase has come a very inopportune moment, when producers are making a determined bid for overseas trade after the coal stoppage that imposed enormous losses on the country. Merchants are also hit as well as producers by a higher railway tariff. Even a small additional charge may be a severe handicap at a time like the present, because it is essential that no hindrance whatever should be placed in the way of trade recovery.

The other side of the story is that the railways are in a serious position. The coal strike meant a drop of £28,000,000 in the gross traffic receipts last year as compared with 1925, and the companies had to draw £7,000,000 from their reserves to pay dividends. I learn that the net loss last year may be anything from £10,000,000 to £15,000,000. At the same time traders declare that they are not getting an efficient train service. They take the line of argument that it is like adding insult to injury to ask them to pay more now than hitherto. They are to be charged at a higher rate for fewer advantages.

Road Transport.

One argument of the railway companies is that, apart from the strike, they are heavily hit by the competition of road transport. The quantity of goods now sent by motor lorries from factory and workshop direct to the purchaser wherever he may be in England, or to the ports for shipment abroad, is enormous. Moreover, it is growing and it will continue to grow. An impetus was given to it by the general strike and the coal strike; it was then proved that it is cheaper and speedier to send direct by lorry from door to door, as it were, than to use the railways with the obligation to handle the goods three or four times. There are now fleets of motor lorries running between London and the great centres of industry throughout the country, and between one provincial town and another.

The railways are of course feeling the effects of this keen competition. Looking to the future the prospect is not an agreeable one for railway managers to contemplate. They complain of the motor traffic competing with them, and also complain that railways have to pay heavily towards local rates for the upkeep of main roads for the use of the rival goods carriers. There is something in this argument, but not very much. Motors are taxed to the Road Fund, which pays big sums for maintenance of the great highways, so the railways are no worse than the general body of ratepayers. What they lose sight of is that they have been in a position of monopoly for so long that they have failed to bring their methods up to date. They must prepare themselves for new conditions and abandon obsolete methods.

Marines For China.

There were scenes of great enthusiasm when Royal Marines left Chatham en route for Eastney Barracks, Portsmouth, to embark with marines from Plymouth and also from Portsmouth for China. The force numbering 1,000 men is the largest contingent of marines ever sent abroad from Portsmouth at one time, exceeding by 300 the draft which went to Belgium in 1914 for the defence of Antwerp. (Continued on next Column).

TWINS WHO THINK IN UNISON.

IDENTICAL TASTES AND MISTAKES IN SCHOOL WORK.

A MEDICAL PUZZLE.

Twins with but a single thought make a curious case which is being investigated by Dr. G. P. Crowden, of University College. The twins, now 20 years of age, are Messrs. G. and L. Ellis, and they live with their father, Mr. Reginald Ellis, a patent agent, at Madeley-road, Ealing.

Dr. Crowden first noticed the twins in a train some years ago, and later made exhaustive tests which are embodied in a report now published by Guy's Hospital. The twins, who were delicate as children, always had the same illnesses, according to the report. The mental and physical development at school was so similar that the master's were at a loss to avoid putting the same remarks on both their reports.

One strong trait they share is that of having the same thoughts in the same environment. One early involuntary test of this arose when they were at school. Both made the same mistake in the same problem during a mathematical examination so that both were accused of cheating. It was found that they were seated at opposite ends of the hall and could not have cheated. In another case when they had to draw a map of England from memory they began and finished the coastline in exactly the same place.

They both chose engineering as their career when at school, but later simultaneously abandoned engineering for law. They are so much alike that only their parents can tell them apart. Their eyes are the same colour, the texture and colour of their hair are identical; their height is the same, their complexion the same, and both are freckled.

Doctor Crowden's ambition is to investigate cases of similar twins who, instead of being brought up together are separated in early childhood, in order to see whether they react to different environments.

At Chatham the streets were lined with vast crowds, and a feature of the farewell was provided by hundreds of unemployed who darted out of the Labour Exchange and cheered madly.

This manifestation of popular feeling confirms what I wrote in my article last week—that the people of this country are determined to protect the lives and property of British residents in China, and maintain the prestige of the British race in the Far East. They may not know very much about the aims of the Cantonese, but they do know that it is the duty of the British Government to prevent the Chinese from inflicting injustice in defiance of treaty rights.

Mr. Eugene Chen In London.

The Daily Express publishes a sketch of Mr. Eugene Chen by a business man who knew the Chinese Nationalist leader when the latter was in London some years ago. Mr. Chen, it seems, was then living at Putney with his wife. The writer was employed by a great firm of pill manufacturers, and it was decided to open up business in China, Mr. Chen being engaged to assist. It was originally intended to send the pills to China in blue cartons. Mr. Chen advised the firm not to do so. He said blue was an unpopular colour among the Chinese, and mentioned some connection with "blue devils," so the colour of the cartons was altered to a bright red.

Mr. Chen used to sit in the office armed with a camel's hair paint brush, and draw up advertisements and translations of labels in the Chinese language. "It fascinated me," says this business man, "to watch his hand moving slowly up the page from the bottom to the top, inscribing the strange characters. We, of course, did not know in the least what he was writing. He might have black-guarded us for all we knew." But he did his work well, as the venture was successful.—H.B.

SUMMARY COURT.

GOODS SOLD AND DELIVERED.

In the Summary Court yesterday, before the acting Puisne Judge, Mr. J. H. B. Nihill, the Chee Lee Company, merchants, of 140, Connaught Road, West, sued Hop King Cheong, building contractors, of 15, Chiu Loong Street, for $470.95, being the amount due for goods sold and delivered. Mr. C. A. S. Russ appeared for the plaintiffs, and the defendants were not represented.

The accountant of the plaintiff firm gave evidence to the effect that the money was owing, and said he had applied for payment, but they had kept on putting him off.

In reply to his Lordship, witness denied that his firm owed the defendants any money.

His Lordship gave judgment for the plaintiffs with costs.

FARMYARD THIEF.

GETS THREE MONTHS' HARD LABOUR.

Sentence of three months' hard labour was imposed by Mr. T. W. Ainsworth, at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday afternoon on the Chinese whose arrest was effected by a plucky farmer in one the villages near Kowloon Tong.

The defendant, together with another man not in custody, was seen moving about surreptitiously in the farmer's garden well after mid-night on Monday. The farmer went to the kitchen to investigate where he was seized by one of the men. He shouted for help and his wife pluckily went to his assistance. She was also seized and in the struggle received a cut in the wrist. The miscreant then took to his heels and only after a stern chase, in which several villagers joined, was he arrested.

ORGAN RECITAL.

To-morrow evening a recital will be given at the Cathedral by Mr. F. Masen, A.R.C.O., L.T.C.L. The following is the programme:—

- 1.—Choral Prelude
"A rose breaks into bloom"
Brahms.
- From a set of Choral Preludes which occupied Brahms during the summer of 1896, and are his last compositions. The one to be played this evening is remarkable for its quiet beauty.
- 2.—Introduction to Act III
"Tannhauser" ... Wagner.
- "As a matter of Instrumentation and Orchestral colouring, Wagner is supreme. Although this fine work can never be so effective as on a large orchestra, it yet remains a wonderful piece of music, which on a modern organ is, at least, impressive."
- 3.—Petite Pastorale, Maurice Ravel.
- A picturesque little movement, graceful and melodious.
- 4.—A Night in May
Selim Palmgren.
- A beautiful atmospheric sketch, written for the piano, but effective on the organ. It abounds in modern progressions.
- 5.—Concerto Grosso
(Prelude, Allemanda, Minuetto)
Archangelo Corelli.
- This, old-world music (A.D. 1700), is intensely rhythmic, has a charm entirely its own. The stately Prelude soon gives place to the Allemanda, a bright and genial movement. A short Adagio, of rich harmonies, played on the Full Swell, followed by delicate flute-like arpeggi, leads into the graceful Minuetto, with which the Concerto closes.
- HYMN 273.
- During the singing of which a collection will be taken for the Organ Fund.
- 6.—Largo, from the Symphony
"From the New World"
Anton Dvorak.
- This well-known movement requires no introduction, taken from a symphony which easily maintains its popularity. It will provide an opportunity for the effective use of one or more of the "solo" stops of the reconstructed organ.
- 7.—Spring Song ... Alfred Hollins.
- An attractive little piece, by the gifted blind composer and organist.
- 8.—Rigaudon ... Lull.
- From the Collection of Airs, composed for the Band of Louis XIV.

THE "SUNNING" PIRACY.

THE LAST TWO OF THE SUSPECTS IN COURT.

PLEA OF MISTAKEN-IDENTITY.

The two alleged pirates who were wounded in connection with the piracy of the s.s. Sunning on November 15th, while the vessel was on a journey from Shanghai to Hong Kong, appeared on remand before Mr. R. E. Lindsell yesterday afternoon at the Central Police Court.

These defendants, it will be recalled, were taken to hospital suffering from wounds when the whole batch of twenty-two suspects were landed here on November 17th, and were, therefore, unable to take their trial together with the 20 accused, some of whom were convicted and some discharged.

At yesterday's hearing, Mr. T. H. King (Director of Criminal Intelligence) prosecuted. The first witness called was a tallyman on the Sunning, who said that at the time when the piracy occurred, he was in his cabin. He heard shots fired and not long after, the second defendant approached witness and his fakis and asked if they had any firearms. On being told that they had not, the No. 2 defendant went away, but returned again after a few hours. Defendant patrolled about for a few minutes and left them. Witness said that he saw the second defendant again after he had been tied up prior to be taken on board H.M.S. Bluebell.

When asked if he had any question to put to the witness, the second defendant said that there must have been a mistake. He said that the witness could not possibly have seen him, as he had never been to that part of the ship.

His Worship: Yes, he made a mistake and so did the others, I suppose!

Passengers' Cabin Ransacked.

Corroborative evidence was given by another tallyman, but said that of the armed men who had been down to their cabin, he could not recognise any one of them. He also testified to seeing the Chief Officer dragged forward from the saloon deck. He said later he was ordered to go back to his cabin by the pirates, and at about 7 p.m. he saw several armed men having a meal in the Chinese saloon. Witness said that he had also seen two or three pirates entering the cabins of the passengers, and that when they emerged, they carried some money in their hands. The money was put into a leather suit-case.

The Chinese first-class cabin boy said that at about 3.30 p.m. he was in the stowage, when he first heard of the piracy. He immediately went up the ladder, but half way up, he was ordered back by armed men. "One of the pirates told me to get back or else he would kill me," added witness.

Continuing witness said that he remained in the stowage until after 5 p.m., and during the time he was there, he saw several armed men who had come down from the upper deck demanding the stowage passengers to hand over their valuables and money. Witness also stated that after midnight he and many others were taken on deck by the pirates to act as shield against the gun fire of the ship's officers. Witness said that he could not identify any one of the two defendants in Court.

Further evidence were heard and the case was again remanded.

S.S. "LING NAM" SOLD.

LOCAL SYNDICATE PAYS $150,000.

The s.s. Ling Nam, which has been lying idle here for months, is reported to have been sold to a local syndicate for $150,000.

The vessel was formerly on the Hong Kong and South America run, but it is stated that under the new owners her run will be between Hong Kong and Singapore.

NAVAL PARADE CANCELLED.

THROUGH INCLEMENCY OF THE WEATHER.

A MARCH THIS MORNING.

There was to have been a route march yesterday morning by a Naval detachment, but owing to the inclemency of the weather it had to be cancelled.

Shortly after nine o'clock over 1,400 blue-jackets and Marines were landed at the Naval Yard and Queen's Pier to march through the City.

Lieut. Comdr. R. B. Ramsay, M.V.O. (H.M.S. Dance) was to have been in command, whilst six officers from each of the vessels sounding detachments were also detailed for duty.

Platoons of blue-jackets were landed from the aircraft-carrier Hermes and from the cruisers Prohiber, Delhi, Danae, Dragon and Caradoc.

The men were in full service kit with steel helmets and web equipment.

Two bands were to have accompanied the column, namely, the massed bands of the Royal Marines of the above men-of-war and a massed "volunteer band" (i.e., blue-jackets).

In addition to the platoons of blue-jackets, machine and Lewis gun sections were detailed for duty, whilst four field guns—drawn by blue-jackets—were to have brought up the rear of the column.

It is understood that a detachment of Royal Marines, numbering about 400 strong, will march through the City morning.

HOTEL KEEPERS WARNED.

REGISTERS MUST BE KEPT.

ZETLAND HOUSE FINED.

When Mrs. White, the proprietress of Zetland House, was summoned before Mr. R. E. Lindsell, at the Central Magistracy, for failing to keep a register of visitors, and neglecting to send weekly returns to the Captain Superintendent of Police, a warning was sounded to all hotel keepers by the Magistrate, who emphasized that such regulations must be complied with.

His Worship imposed a fine of $25.

DEAF PRISONER GIVES HIMSELF AWAY.

LOOKS BLANK BUT HEARS HIS SENTENCE.

The solemnity of the Court and the usual monotony of uninteresting cases were broken yesterday at the Central Magistracy, when the deaf and illiterate Chinese, who was charged with the unlawful possession of five tins of non-Government opium made his re-appearance before Mr. R. E. Lindsell.

It will be recalled that at a previous hearing of the case, Sub-Inspector Clarke stated that the man was stone deaf and unable to read or write.

His Worship passed sentence of $500 fine, or three months' hard labour, but said that it would have to stand in abeyance until yesterday as it was necessary that some means be found for acquainting the man of the Court's sentence.

"When the man was brought to Court yesterday morning, he preserved the same blank look that had hitherto deceived many on-lookers, but the bomb-shell was exploded when the Magistrate told the man that 'the show was off' and that he had better not to pretend any longer. 'You did not know that you were under observation in the Gael hospital yesterday, did you? As soon as you were left alone you started talking to your next neighbour,' said Mr. Lindsell.

Upon a certificate from the Prison Medical Officer, his Worship said that the sentence passed at the first hearing would stand.

DEDICATION SERVICE HELD "LAST NIGHT."

At St. John's Cathedral last evening a description has previously appeared in the Daily Press, was dedicated by the Bishop of Victoria (The Right Rev. C. R. Duppuy).

The service was opened with the processional hymn "All people that on earth do dwell" which was sung unaccompanied.

When the clergy and choir had reached their places, the Bishop pronounced the dedicatory prayer. Following this the choir rendered Barnby's anthem "Grant to us, Lord..."

Special prayers by the Cathedral Chaplain (The Rev. H. Copley Moyle) followed.

The choir then sang the anthem "O praise God in His Holiness" (Hugh Blair).

After the dedicatory service, the following organ solos were played by Mr. F. Masen (the Cathedral Organist): "Minuet" from "Berceuse" (Handel), and "Allegro Maestoso" from Sonata No. 3 (Rheinberger).

The service was concluded with the singing of "O Worship the King—All-glorious Above," the Blessing, and Stainer's "Sevenfold Amen." A collection was taken for the Organ Fund.

JAPANESE MAILED FIST IN MUKDEN.

SUCCESSFUL SHOW OF FORCE WHEN PROTEST FAILS.

The protests of the Japanese Consulate against the imposition of the 2½ per cent. surtax on goods entering the native city from the direction of the Japanese Concession proving unavailing, some 60 local Japanese took it into their heads to see what could be accomplished by a martial spirit, writes a N.-C. Daily News correspondent from Mukden. The day before, a large Japanese concern, more as a test than anything else, attempted to send some 30 cases of merchandise to one of their clients in the native city without the payment of any surtax to the collectors at the gate. The goods were not permitted to proceed, and so were piled up on the street, with Japanese policemen standing guard all through the night, with the thermometer many degrees below zero.

And it Passed.

Despite the sharp protests of the Japanese authorities, nothing could be done, whereupon the 60 Japanese mentioned marched out to the spot where the piled-up goods were located. What impression this gave to the collectors it is hard to say. Perhaps they thought the Japanese would put up a fight, or that discretion was the part of valour, but, in any case, they permitted the cargo to pass into the native city.

It is the impression of foreign observers that what the surtax collectors could not obtain from the senders of the goods would be collected from the receivers, "and then some" as the Americans say. It is expected that the Chinese authorities will take the matter up officially with the Japanese Consulate, claiming interference with the work of Chinese officials, but to the average Japanese in Mukden this display of martial spirit is regarded as a good joke, although in some quarters it is considered undiplomatic.

DARKEST RUSSIA. INDIAN'S TERRIBLE IMPRISONMENT.

An Indian engineer, Mohamed Said Kureshi, has arrived in Berlin from Russia where he spent nearly five years in prison before being able to get into "touch" with the British representative who secured his release. He said:

The worst prison was that at Solovetsk, which is on an island in the White Sea. I do not believe that in the whole of the world there is such a hell. I was never tried by the Bolshevik authorities, who had no evidence against me. I am only alive now because I believe they dared not kill a British subject.

POLICE VERSUS THE UNIONS.

CANTON SHOP BLOCKADE LIFTED.

BUDDHIST NUNNERIES TO BE DISSOLVED.

FALL OF SHANGHAI RUMOURS.

[FROM OUR CHINESE CORRESPONDENT.]

Kuomintang authorities in Canton, on the evening of February 14th, requested the aid of the Police to raise the blockades which the labour unions have declared on the business firms. The unions' method of blockade was to place a Red flag in front of the black-listed office or shop and two pickets would prevent any further transaction of business. On the evening of the 14th, the Police lifted the blockade on nearly 500 shops.

Soviet agents in Canton are not so helpful to Kuomintang comrades as they usually profess, and even the Kuomintang Press agencies have complained. Some $300,000 alleged to have been put in the hands of the Soviet High Commission has yet to be accounted for, as the aeroplanes for which this was the payment have not all been delivered.

As in Canton, merchants in Shikwan have, owing to Union action, been unable to appoint or dismiss fakis on the second day of the Chinese New Year according to the usual custom. The Unions in Shikwan are insisting that the merchants must comply with their demands or close down until further notice.

Mr. Hsu Chung Ching, Commissioner of Education in Canton, is in a difficulty with regard to the appointment of Madame Sun Yat Sen as headmistress of the Canton Normal School for Women. Madame Sun has signified her intention to accept the offer but has not assumed office, and police Mr. Hsu is reluctant to complain.

Forestry and Brigands.

One of the reasons why the Kuomintang District Committee at Hsueh, Southern Kwangtung, is anxious to develop the forests, according to their own accounts, is that some 5,000 or more bandits are now making the forest their stronghold and that a proper working of the woodlands will drive the outlaws away.

On February 15th there were further rumours of the capture of Shanghai, but many have failed to display the fire-crackers and the Red flag as requested.

General Huang Shao Hung, chief militarist of Kwangsi, is again reported indisposed and coming to Canton for treatment.

Kuomintang and Buddhists.
The Kuomintang Executive Committee of Kwangtung has recommended the confiscation of all nunneries and setting all nuns free of their vows. Buddhists, however, deny the right of the Kuomintang to dissolve nuns of their vows. Some of the nuns were probably admitted as young girls against their will and at the request of their parents but the abolition of the system as a whole is resented by Kuomintang opponents.

Canton Telephone Exchange is still holding up the service to Shikwan, intimating that the service will be restored only upon the Shikwan people paying all the arrears. The Shikwan people are refusing to pay for the time during the anti-British boycott and strikes, when there was no service.

According to a Kuomintang news agency report, the Kuomintang is not giving up its plan to invade Yunnan.

Labour Troubles Settled.

Owing to a dispute among themselves, the stevedores and the boatmen near the Customs House in Canton suspended service, and all importers in Canton have suffered. The stevedores are preventing non-union men working while they themselves are refusing service.

A later message states that the strike is ended and no difficulties need be feared by Hong Kong merchants who ship goods to Canton.

After a strike of nearly three months, the servants of hotels in Canton have been back at work since February 10th, and many hotels are now able to resume business.

Charge coolies working along the Chinese Section of the Canton-Kowloon Railway are asking for an increase of pay by 70 per cent.

Some 267 cases of small-pox have been reported in Canton during the first 10 days of the Chinese New Year.

THE CREW OF THE "TAISHAN."

RETICENT ABOUT A RECEPTION.

[FROM OUR CHINESE CORRESPONDENT.]

The Chinese Seamen's Union in Canton has been informed that the Hong Kong Police Authorities on February 11th returned the picture of the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, one of the articles seized from the crew's quarters of the s.s. Taishan on January 19th.

It is understood that the crew of the s.s. Taishan will celebrate the "victory" by giving a reception on board the steamer at Hong Kong next Saturday evening. The seamen have, however, been reticent about the celebration, and declare that it is only to celebrate the inauguration of a branch union among the crew of the Taishan.

HONG KONG LABOUR DELEGATES IN CANTON.

MANY LONG SPEECHES.

The 400 Chinese workers' delegates from Hong Kong attending a conference under the auspices of Kuomintang in Canton during the week ending February 13th, have returned to Hong Kong. Before their departure they were given a reception by the Overseas Division of the Kuomintang Party.

According to a Kuomintang news agency, the Overseas Division of the Kuomintang were hosts at a reception given to the delegates on February 13th, and the speeches lasted from 10 o'clock in the morning to 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Among those who replied to the speeches on behalf of the delegates were a Miss Wen Chi Yi, who represented the workers in the Straits Settlements. All the speakers called for the immediate surrender of all Concessions.

MUDFORD-ON-SEA.

FIRST MEETING OF COUNCIL TO-NIGHT.

INTERESTING DEBATE ARRANGED.

This evening the first meeting, after the elections, to the Mudford Town Council takes place under the auspices of the Literary and Debating Society of the European Y.M.C.A., Kowloon. The meeting will be held in the Lounge, and commences at nine o'clock.

The Mayor (Alderman, the Rev. J. Horace Johnstone) will preside, and a very interesting debate has been arranged.

Messrs. Munn and Long, who were returned at the head of the poll, have promised to maintain the standard of humour which characterised the meetings of the Socialists throughout the election campaign.

A convenient method has been found of disposing of thoroughly businesslike lines of the schemes which, although they formed the basis of the election, have already been done full justice to.

The public is cordially invited to attend the proceedings which will be quite short and in which full opportunities will be given for the ventilation of the wit which was such a happy feature of the election.

ARREST OF UNION OFFICIALS.

POLICE COURT SEQUEL.

POSSESSION OF SEDITIOUS MATTER?

As announced in the Daily Press yesterday, three Chinese officials of the Chinese Seamen's Union were arrested on board the s.s. President Teif in Hong Kong.

These men appeared before Mr. R. E. Lindsell at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning charged with being in possession of seditious pamphlets.

Mr. T. H. King (Director of Criminal Intelligence) prosecuted, and applied for a short remand, in order that the translation of the documents seized might be completed at the office of the Secretary for Chinese Affairs.

His Worship accordingly remanded the defendants until noon to-day.

CORRESPONDENCE.

PUBLIC HEALTH VERSUS CESSPOOLS.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—Your correspondent "Salus Populi Suprema Lex" article is very illuminative, but being at a loss to understand how the cesspools removed 200 yards as advocated by the M.O.H. from the residential district would cease to be noisome, since the penetrating smell and sickening odours are evolved at the moment of the distribution of liquified human excreta over the vegetable gardens, which now extend almost to the doorsteps of the Kowloon Tong residents, I consulted a friend of mine. This is the Medical explanation, which I venture to make public with the hope of allaying the fears of the residents of the Garden City of Kowloon Tong:—The germs of typhoid and dysentery having to travel 200 yards from their headquarters (the cesspools) before they are spread over the vegetables, get exhausted and lose their virulence. The house-fly transfers these attenuated germs to the food and drink which ingested by the residents act as vaccines and thus prevent the outbreaks of those dreaded diseases. But, if inadvertently, the domestic fly now transformed from the worst enemy to a good Samaritan, instead of these prophylactic doses, administers a lethal (toxic) dose—one has always our Water Supply to blame!—Yours, etc.,

PRO-HYGIENE.

KOWLOON TONG SQUATTERS.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—Mr. Braga's letter in the last issue of your paper answers partly the question raised by me. We know that Mr. Wong Kwong Tin's strong point against the withdrawal of permits to new squatters was their genealogical tree and the fear of an outbreak of famine; Mr. Cressy's Piece de resistance was conservatism. But what about the "unavailable" arguments of the other two distinguished members of the Sanitary Board? The public have a right to know, and, knowing, bow their heads and say "Magister dixit."

Does Mr. Braga's silence mean that they were led like sheep to the slaughter house, or did they say, in spite of the arguments: "Come one, come all. This rock shall fly as soon as I." Yours, etc.,

THE "MAGIC CUP."

ITALIAN CONVENT GIRLS PRESENT INTERESTING PLAY.

"Magic Cup," an operetta in two parts which was so successfully given by the girls of the Italian Convent at their annual Prize Day held on the 10th inst., was repeated yesterday evening before a large and appreciative audience.

In part one of this pretty little fairy play, the scene of the story was laid on an island in the Caribbean Sea, peopled by wrecked emigrants. These ship-wrecked population worked very hard to make the island habitable, and their industry was rewarded by the fairies who presented the leader with a Magic Cup. After must feasting and rejoicing the Magic Cup was stolen by the Fairy Queen in order to assist the Princess Mabel in her love affair with the son of an English Naval Officer.

Part two, or the concluding part, as often the case with all stage plays, the young lovers found peace and happiness after a stormy twelve months. Miss A. Silico, in the part of Princess Mabel, played her rôle admirably and all the young ladies in the cast acquitted themselves well and were loudly applauded.

KOWLOON RESIDENTS' ASSOCIATION.

USEFUL YEAR'S WORK.

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The seventh annual general meeting of the Kowloon Residents' Association will be held in the St. Andrew's Church Hall, Kowloon, on Monday, February 21st, 1927, at 6 p.m., when the report and accounts for 1926 will be presented, officers and committee elected and "any other business" discussed.

THE REPORT.

The society has had a busy and successful year's work which is reflected in the annual report of the General Committee from which we give the following extracts:—

The Committee in presenting its desires to call attention to the comprehensive nature of the work. The report commences with the residences—the question of rent, cleansing of servants' quarters, telephone service, etc.—then deals with the traffic of the streets under various aspects and the Ferry service. Education is not forgotten, nor health and recreation in the matter of playgrounds, Band Concerts and bathing facilities, as well as Dispensary and Hospital. A reference to the Kowloon Cemeteries adds a touch of completeness to the survey! But, in addition to these wider issues, a number of minor grievances have been taken up in response to the appeals of individual members, and some of these are also mentioned.

Rents Ordinance.

This year the Government announced its intention to allow the Rents Ordinance, which had been in operation under various forms for 5 years, to lapse on the 30th June. A referendum of the members was taken and, as 81 per cent. of the responses were in favour of an appeal to the Government to continue the Ordinance in operation, a petition was sent forthwith. The Rents Ordinance was not renewed, and the Committee, after receiving a number of complaints concerning increased rents, appealed to the Government to institute a "Fair Rents Board." The Government finally wrote to say that it was not prepared to interfere, as it considered that time must be given to allow rents to find their proper economic level.

Telephone Service.

Complaints having been received of the telephone service in Kowloon, a Sub-Committee was elected to deal with the matter, and inquiry was made into the operation of the whole system, and the attention of the Company called to certain features which appeared unsatisfactory.

The Company, has given a general assurance "that all that can reasonably and practically be done to effect both immediate and ultimate improvements and extensions is being done."

As regards faults in the Telephone Service, the Committee remind their members that the Company have a system, whereby all faults in the operation may be traced to their proper cause, if the complaint is telephoned immediately to the Clerk-in-charge and afterwards confirmed in writing to the Manager.

Kowloon Traffic.

Coming to questions of traffic, the first matter dealt with was the decision of Government to postpone completion of the work at the dangerous corner by the Peking Theatre, at the junction of Nathan and Gascoigne Roads. The Committee added their strong protest to others, and the work was resumed.

Improvements in the Bus Service are gradually being carried out along the lines of the recommendations made in 1924 by the K.R.A. The system of fixed stopping-places has been put into force and the use of a sign to indicate a "Full Bus" is being adopted.

An effort was made to secure a system of monthly tickets available for all buses. The three Companies accordingly prepared a scheme, but one so impracticable that it was not worth discussing.

Knowing that the question of improving the Star Ferry Approach was before the Government, the Committee resolved to ask the Government to acquiesce the K.R.A. with the outline of the proposed scheme before it was finally agreed upon. At the same time a Sub-Committee was formed to scrutinise any plans which the Government might see fit to send. The Sub-Committee worked out a plan independently and it has been forwarded to the Government.

The Star Ferry Company sent a copy of their projected plan for the improvement of the Hong Kong wharf for the consideration of the Committee. A Sub-Committee was formed to deal with it, and all the suggested improvements and met with the cordial approval of the Committee.

Representation On Education Board.

Kowloon residents are still represented on the Education Board, the Rev. G. Reginald Lindsay, M.A., having been appointed, on the recommendation of the Committee, to take the place of Mr. Wylie, who went home on furlough.

Children's Playground.

In connection with the Children's Playground a set of rules was submitted by the Police Department and certain modifications suggested by the Committee.

The Committee regrets the slow negotiations for the extension of the Playground to part of the fields near Holt's Wharf. Railway material obstructing the ground has kindly been removed by the Railway Company but other work has been delayed.

Application was made for a recreation ground for Chinese youths on vacant ground on the South side of Argyle Street. The Government replied that part of the ground has been allocated for that purpose.

Bathing Facilities.

As the question of Bathing Facilities in the Colony was before the Government, the Committee appointed a Sub-Committee to report on behalf of Kowloon, and a number of suggestions were forwarded to the Government for improvement of facilities at Castle Peak, and the opening of a bathing beach at Tai Wan.

Kowloon Hospital.

In connection with the Kowloon Hospital an incident occurred which gave the Committee another opportunity to plead with the Government to allow patients to be attended by their own Medical Practitioners if they so desire. In this way, although the Government declined to alter its decision, it is kept in mind of the wish of residents and its own original intention.

Various Grievances.

The Committee has dealt the noisy cries of hawkers in a district where they are forbidden, the barking of the dogs in the "Dog" Home, the interference with telephone wires by promiscuous kite-flying the want of a telephone connection with Mong-kok-bui Police Station, the congregation of Amahs under the verandahs in Nathan Road, etc. The Committee take this opportunity of thanking the Captain Superintendent of Police for his response to its appeal.

Publicity.

Thanks are due to the Press of Hong Kong for sympathetic references to the work of the K.R.A. The Committee also thank the Star Ferry Company for allocating space for K.R.A. announcements in one of their framed Notice-Boards and for consenting to keep Membership forms in their Office.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The Treasurer's report stated that the total collected from members was $533.00.

There were 284 members on the 31st December, of whom 18 have not yet paid their subscription for 1926. The amount received from the Bank in respect to our investment on Fixed Deposit was $20.32. The total expenditure was $292.43, as against $278.00 in 1925. Altogether 775 copies of the Report were posted. The result of the propaganda was fairly good, 22 new members being enrolled.

It was decided to discontinue renting a Post Office Letter Box for 1927, as it was found to be very little availed of by members.

The Balance at hand on the 31st December, 1926, was $774.95, made up as follows:—

$700.00 on Fixed Deposit with Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation.

74.95 on Current Account with Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation.

HONG KONG, FEBRUARY 17th, 1927.

FAMILY LIFE IN CHINA.

It is difficult, in these days of turmoil, to estimate to what extent the new ideas imported into China during the last fifty years have affected family life. The old system of state examinations and public education was swept away with the Manchu dynasty. How much of the old tradition has remained in the homes of the people? We know that in many towns and villages teachers still expound the philosophy associated with the names of Confucius and Mencius and it is noticeable that wealthy Chinese, who have made fortunes overseas, are ready to subscribe to projects for the cultivation of knowledge of the Chinese classics. European sinologists who claim to know the Chinese people as a result of their studies and long residence in the Far East are invariably anxious lest the study of the classics be neglected in the schools of the treaty ports and as our readers are aware the local University has recently launched a Faculty of Chinese Studies. This scheme was inspired by Sir Cecil Clementi and has been financed up to the present by Chinese in the Straits Settlements. Are the Chinese generally, however, anxious that their old system of family life shall be preserved? Ancestor worship is still the cult of the great majority of the people and early marriage, polygamy and the desire for large families are a natural result. It does not seem probable that there will be any great diminution in the birth-rate of China during our generation but there is a great probability of a considerable decrease in the death-rate. A spread of knowledge concerning the prevention and cure of disease will inevitably have this effect. In Korea the death rate has fallen rapidly as a result of the sanitary measures introduced by the Japanese administration. The death rate for England and Wales last year was 11.6 per 1,000. No one can estimate the figures for China, but they are probably four times as high as this. Dr. EDWARD ROSS, Professor of Sociology in the University of Wisconsin, states that the present fecundity of the Chinese is "from fifty to sixty per thousand." In England and Wales last year the birth-rate was 17.8 per 1,000. Experienced observers, such as Mr. J. O. P. Bland, have expressed the opinion that the real cause of the constant turmoil in China is the excess population. Brigandage, piracy and civil war, they say, is due to the fact that starvation seems to be the only alternative for those who fight for a pittance.

It is difficult to see how a birth rate three times as high as that of Anglo-Saxon countries can be maintained in the face of a steadily diminishing death rate due to the gradual adoption of modern hygienic measures, without intensifying the already bitter struggle against poverty. It seems therefore that the old ideas concerning large families in China must be modified as time goes on. The desire of the Chinese male for offspring will probably not vanish suddenly but the spread of knowledge regarding medical matters and the education of women will affect the problem.

Ancestor worship and its inevitable result which in Moslem phraseology is "be fruitful and multiply" is, of course, only one portion of Confucian philosophy. Perhaps that will be modified or eliminated and the rest be accepted as a permanent portion of the new civilisation which may come out of the present pains.

Considerable interest has been aroused by the report that a British lawyer was refused a hearing in the Mixed Court, Shanghai, because he was not wearing the Chinese gown and silk prescribed by the Court. It appears that British practitioners must not wear the gowns used in British Courts in any Court which are not British, and they are prevented by their own Bar Association from donning the gown required by a foreign Court. Therefore, if the ruling of Judge Zia at Shanghai stands no British barrister or solicitor will be able to appear at the Mixed Court in future. It all seems a little ridiculous to the layman who will express the fervent hope that such minor matters of etiquette for no question of principle appears to be involved—will be adjusted amicably.

LEGAL ETIQUETTE.

The question, we understand, is one that concerns the Bar Association at Shanghai only. It is within their competence to make any regulations they think fit in the interests of their own members. If one of the regulations which they have passed offends the judges now presiding at the Mixed Court the simplest plan would be for them to rescind it. In some Courts at Home barristers have been severely reprimanded for appearing without their wigs; in others, on a sultry afternoon in summer, they have been invited to remove them for the sake of comfort. The Chinese judges in Shanghai may possibly have an exaggerated idea of the deference which should be shown to their whims and fancies. It is perhaps natural in view of the fact that the constitution of the Court has been changed so recently. But why not humour them? It costs nothing and the Shanghai Bar, as far as we can see, would lose nothing in dignity. It is the wrong handling of small matters such as this that leads so often to regrettable friction between different nationalities.

THE FENGTIENESE CONCENTRATING IN HONAN.

ANOTHER STATEMENT BY THE BRITISH COLONIAL SECRETARY.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, February 16th.—"We have no thought of waging war in China or on China," declared Mr. Amery, Secretary of State for the Colonies, in a speech at Walthamstow Conservative Club. Referring to the Government's policy in sending troops to Shanghai, he said that he was confident that the action had contributed to the preservation of peace. The very fact that the men were there would make it unnecessary for them to fire a shot in anger. It was only because we realised what had happened at Hankow and Kiukiang that the troops had been sent to Shanghai.

SIR ALFRED MOND AND THE FOREIGN OFFICE.

"BEST BUSINESS BRAINS OF THE COUNTRY" NOT CONSULTED.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, February 16th.—Sir Alfred Mond, speaking before the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce, said that the Chambers of Commerce represented the best business brains of the country, but that neither on the question of Russia nor China had their representatives been asked to go to the Foreign Office. Sir Alfred Mond declared that there was no country he knew of where the views of businessmen were so little regarded as at Whitehall. He pleaded for an organised movement by the Chambers of Commerce to spread their views on the Chinese question.

SHANGHAI, February 16th.—There are indications of a somewhat rapid and unexpected development of the military situation in Chekiang. The Southern forces claim to have captured Chuchow, 45 miles to the south-west of Hangchow. Well-informed quarters here believe that this report also indicates that a Southern offensive is developing in the same region.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

No Official News in London.

LONDON, Feb. 15th.—Sir Austen Chamberlain was asked in the House of Commons whether the report that the negotiations at Hankow had broken down was well-founded.

He replied that he had, as yet, received no official report to this effect.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

A NEW SITUATION CREATED.

HANKOW, Feb. 15th.—Mr. O'Malley stated this morning that Mr. Eugene Chen yesterday made a series of statements, partly referring to Sir Austen Chamberlain's recent speech, partly about the agreement and partly about the assurances.

The effect of these statements was to create a new situation; and the agreement was not signed because he (Mr. O'Malley) thought it necessary to put the fresh situation before Sir Austen Chamberlain in order to enable the latter to decide what should be done about the agreement.

Meanwhile, Mr. O'Malley will remain at Hankow and await further instructions.

[CHINESE PRESS SERVICE.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 16th.—The discussions on the renewal of the Sino-Japanese Commercial Treaty were continued on the 15th inst. at Peking, with regard to the tariff question. The Japanese delegate proposed that "a mutual favour" agreement must be set up before discussion on the tariff could be entered upon. After long discussion Dr. Koo finally agreed to discuss the point at a meeting to be called on the 19th inst.

RECENT FIGHTING IN CHEKIANG.

SOUTHERNERS PLAN TO GET HANGCHOW.

NOTABLE SUCCESS OF NORTHERNERS.

It is but a little while since it was believed by many well-informed people in China that it could be only a few days before the Cantonese troops would be in Shanghai, making way up through Chekiang Province by way of Hangchow, writes a N.C. Daily News correspondent. However, since the China New Year holidays the situation has taken a distinct turn for the worse as far as the Cantonese are concerned, and at least for the time being the province is likely to remain in the control of Marshal Sun Chuan-fang. His army is said to be more strongly entrenched and has a higher morale than at any time since the Cantonese started their push in this direction.

The direct cause of their retreat may be found in the strategic move of the Northern army in sending General Bai Bao San with the 8th and 7th divisions, numbering about 15,000 men, down through Anhui in an encircling movement to cut off the Southern army. The plan worked to perfection and during the first two or three days in February the Northern forces fell on their enemy's lines of communication which had been formed from Chuchow to a point between Lanchei and Yenchow during the Cantonese successes of January 27th, 28th and 29th.

From the best reports to hand, there was very little fighting, the Northern outnumbers the Cantonese overwhelmingly, since the Cantonese were strung out along a long line. Hasty retreat was the only avenue left for the Southern army. The rapidity of their retreat points to the fact that they had only small forces in the vicinity. Had the move of General Bai not been made, it seems very unlikely that the Cantonese would have been able to have gained their objective, Hangchow. They were attempting a frontal attack on Yenchow along the Chientang River which would probably have failed, since they were largely outnumbered, while Yenchow is one of the strongest garrisoned positions in the province.

Cantonese Supply Troubles. The Cantonese were further handicapped by the lack of supplies, it is said. Their base of supplies is some hundreds of miles away and everything has to be taken across country which is anything but easy to penetrate. Their only hope was to launch a quick attack against Marshal Sun's forces and take a chance of being immediately successful, capture the Chekiang base where there would be ammunition. This was what was attempted and failed.

It is estimated that in Chekiang Province to-day there are in the neighbourhood of 80,000 men under Marshal Sun's command, headed by Divisional Commander Mong Tsau Yuen, who was formerly commander of the 8th division of native forces. Though there are only vague reports of the number of Cantonese troops in the vicinity of the war area, it is practically assured that they are outnumbered at least three to one.

Northern Threat to Anking.

From reports coming in to Shanghai it is presumed that no attempt will be made—at least for quite a time—to make another offensive. The movement of the forces of General Chang T'ung Chang toward Anking, capital of Anhwei, on the Yangtze, seems to be worrying the Southern forces considerably and they are undoubtedly needing all the troops available to effect this. This leaves none available to reinforce those pushing on Chekiang, leaving the whole situation more or less in a deadlock.

TIENTSIN AND THE SURTAX.

EFFECT OF JAPANESE OPPOSITION.

[CHINESE PRESS SERVICE.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 16th.—The imposition of the surtax is to start at Tientsin through the Custom House here. But the Japanese merchants still refuse to agree to the surtax, and consequently all Japanese goods now arriving at Tientsin are not being unloaded at present, pending a settlement.

THE HARBOUR STRIKE AT COLOMBO.

REPORTED AS SPREADING.

BUSINESS CONSIDERABLY DISLOCATED.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

COLOMBO, February 16th.—The harbour strike is spreading as the crane-men have now struck. Trade has been considerably affected, and several steamers have been advised not to call at Colombo, while others are leaving without landing part of their cargo.

THE EARTHQUAKE IN SOUTHERN EUROPE.

HEAVY DESTRUCTION POPULATION PANIC-STRIKEN.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, February 16th.—The latest reports confirm the alarming nature of the earthquake, the deaths being estimated at several hundred, due to the collapse of 1,000 houses in Bosnia, Herzegovina and Dalmatia.

There was heavy destruction at Ragusa, Cattaro, Spalato and Mostar, and the population is panic-stricken. There were most terrible scenes at Papov Polje, a row of houses being precipitated down the mountain side. The inhabitants perished in the ruins. The centre of the disturbance was apparently under the sea, throwing up large waves and compelling the Dalmatian coast dwellers to flee inland.

NICARAGUA'S WAR.

PREPARING FOR DECISIVE FIGHT.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

MANAGUA, Feb. 16th.—The rival Liberal and Conservative forces are preparing for a decisive fight for the possession of Managua, the second most important town in Nicaragua. The American Charge d'Affaires has advised Americans there to barricade their houses and await developments.

Further U.S. Action.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16th.—The Naval Department has ordered the transport Henderson to sail from Philadelphia to Guantanamo with 600 bluejackets for scouting with the Fleet. The transport's further orders depend upon developments in Nicaragua.

FRENCH BONDS.

NEW ISSUE QUICKLY COVERED.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PARIS, February 15th.—A further step towards the consolidation of the French floating debt has been taken with the issue of four milliards of francs worth of 15-year seven per cent Treasury Bonds, which was covered within a few hours. The issue is designed, firstly, to pay off two milliard francs of 1922 six per cent Bonds falling due in September.

BRITAIN'S UNEMPLOYED.

A FURTHER DECREASE.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, February 15th.—The latest weekly return shows further decrease of 22,000 in the number of unemployed, the total being now 1,303,500. This is 133,500 more than a year ago.

WIRELESS TELEPHONY.

EXTENSION OF TRANS-ATLANTIC SERVICE.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUOBY, February 15th.—The Postmaster General states that the number of telephone calls made by the trans-Atlantic wireless service since its inauguration on January 7th is 328, of which 40 per cent were out-going from England. The Postmaster-General announces that to-morrow the service will become available to and from the American States of Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. These States, with others already admitted to the service, constitute a second American zone. On Thursday next, the service will be further extended to the states of Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida, which are in the third American zone.

KING FOG.

ENGLISH CHANNEL IN HIS GRIP.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUOBY, February 15th.—The fog, which has now beset the English Channel for five successive days, was so bad at noon to-day that all mail and passenger services between England and the Continent were suspended. This is said to be the first time for 50 years that fog has obtained so complete a hold of the Channel which is enshrouded from coast to coast. Ships, not venturing to move, are anchored all over the channel, and air traffic is likewise suspended.

The King and Queen of the Belgians had intended to fly from London back to Brussels to-day but they have been unable to make the journey, either by air or sea, and will remain here until to-morrow.

JAPAN'S SORROW.

SYMPATHY OF THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUOBY, February 15th.—In the House of Lords, the Earl of Birkenhead moved that an address be presented to H.M. the King, expressing deep regret at the death of the Emperor of Japan, and praying His Majesty to express to the present Emperor the profound sympathy of the House with the Imperial family, Government and people of Japan.

Lord Birkenhead said that the relations between ourselves and that other great land confronted by so many comparable problems had been too intimate to make it possible for us to pass by the moment of national mourning in Japan without making it plain that we intended, so far as we could, to share her griefs. Lord Birkenhead referred to the great and loyal part played by Japan as Britain's ally in the Great War.

Viscount Haldane, on behalf of the Labour Opposition, and Earl Beauchamp for the Liberal Party, supported the motion, which was agreed to.

A similar resolution has already been passed by the House of Commons.

HINDU-MOSLEM CLASH.

COMMUNAL RIOTING.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BOMBAY, February 15th.—The Times of India reports serious communal rioting at Indore, five persons being killed and 19 injured.

A party of Hindu women were motoring from a religious ceremony and were attacked for allowing music in front of a Moslem mosque. Crowds of worshippers poured out of the building and pelted the offenders with stones and bricks. A mob followed the cars home, where millworkers awelled the crowd to 2,000. Outhouses were set on fire and police and cavalry were hurried to the scene. The position is uncertain.

DISARMAMENT.

M. BRIAND'S VIEWS OF PRES. COOLIDGE'S MEMORANDUM.

THE AUTHORITY OF THE LEAGUE.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PARIS, Feb. 15th.—M. Briand's reply to President Coolidge's Disarmament Memorandum is now ready to be laid this morning before the Council of Ministers.

It suggests that the United States should refer the propositions to the League of Nations which is entitled by its Covenant to deal with disarmament. France does not consider herself as having the right to hold a separate conference and deprive the League of Nations of its rights and thus deal a death-blow to Geneva's authority, which was necessary for the maintenance of world peace. It thinks a conference of five large Powers would eliminate other naval nations also interested. Disarmament must apply simultaneously to naval, military and aerial forces and must consider the geographical situation of the interested Powers.

French Draft Reply.

PARIS, Feb. 15th.

The Cabinet has approved of the draft reply to President Coolidge's disarmament proposals. The contents are not disclosed but are understood to be tantamount to a refusal of the invitation, on the ground that the League of Nations, which has long been dealing with a comprehensive scheme for disarmament, is approaching a practical result.

Cabinet Approves.

PARIS, Feb. 15th.

The text of the French reply to President Coolidge's disarmament proposals recognises their "lofty aim and generous idealism," but considers that they risk compromising the work already begun at Geneva, and that it is only there, under the aegis of the League, that they should be studied. It points out that the League has advanced several stages in the direction of the goal fixed by the Covenant. France, therefore, deprecates a special conference of five Powers when all the navies of the world are entitled to be associated with an agreement on the question of the limitation of light vessels.

President Coolidge's Views.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16th.

It is announced that President Coolidge believes that his armaments proposal is the only practical means of accomplishing a reduction in armaments, particularly in the naval sphere. It is indicated at the White House that the President is strongly of opinion that no agreement on those points, particularly interesting to the major naval Powers, can be expected from a conference including nations not possessing naval forces of sufficient size to fall within the conference.

INQUEST SCENE AT CARDIFF.

STORY OF "CONFESSION" IN THE CELLS.

An alleged conversation between two prisoners awaiting trial in the prison cell, gave a dramatic turn at the inquest at Cardiff recently on Hilda Medd, wife of a seaman. Oswald Morris, a former help of Grange-town, who has been remanded on a charge of manslaughter, was present.

Evidence was given that Morris was a regular visitor to Mrs. Medd during the week before her death, and the police stated a baby's body was recovered from a garden.

A witness named Mrs. Ellen Bell faintly on being called, exclaiming that she could not face Morris. The coroner, Dr. Smith, ordered the man to move to the other side of the court.

Daniel Patrick Lyons, a prisoner undergoing sentence, said that while awaiting trial he occupied the same cell as Morris, and they had a long conversation about Mrs. Medd's death.

He alleged that Morris admitted to him that he attended Mrs. Medd, and also that he had attended a number of other women and disposed of the bodies of the babies, either by burning, burying, or throwing them into the River Liff.

Morris protested to the coroner that Lyons was telling lies. The inquest was adjourned.

RACING NOTES.

[By RAPIER.]

On Tuesday morning Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Paterson's ponies galloped, but the times were all on the slow side. Yesterday morning most of the owners came down to see their ponies perform. Those present included Colonel Comyn, Messrs. Hall, Shenton, White, Humphreys, Priestley, Sim, Peel, Jupp, Ho Kwong, Ho Leung, and Ho Ki. Of course, Messrs. Dunbar, Pirie, Abbey and Ost never miss a morning and it is hoped that their virtue will meet with its proverbial reward at the annual meeting. It was dark when I arrived at the Course but I was nevertheless informed of the detailed times done by Canadian over 14 miles. The time given to me was good but as it was obviously impossible to see the different quarter mile posts one must be content to continue to regard Canadian as a "dark" horse. Chesapeake Bay did a half mile in 1.10, last quarter 23.4, which is pretty good going on the sand track. It is not easy to get any information regarding Mr. Roda's stable as his ponies are galloped at 9.30 when all diligent boys are in the school room. His best candidate for the Derby is Democritus which moves in an impressive manner. The latest sub to show distinct signs of improvement is Loch Tunnel which beat The Grig in a mile gallop. King Boy is also going well while Potterbush, Stanchenge and King Alan continue to move along nicely. All the gallops yesterday were on the sand track and the going was heavyish. The following are a few of the times taken, namely:—

Grey Knight (Boy) 1 mile:—37; 1.12; 1.47; 2.23.4.
Brigade (Boy) 1 1/2 miles:—23.4; 1.13.4; 1.49.4; 2.33.3; 2.55.4.
Common (Sokoloff) 1 1/2 miles:—32.2; 1.13.2; 1.47; 2.20; 2.54.2. Last quarter 34.2.

King Alan; King Fern (Boy) Last three quarters of one mile:—40; 1.16.2; 1.49.2. Last quarter 33.
The George and Vulture; Sugar Loaf (Boy) 1 mile:—38.2; 1.15; 1.47.3. Last quarter 32.3.
Golden Hall (Boy) 1 mile:—37; 1.13.2; 1.48.4; 2.22.1. Last quarter 32.2.
The Grig (Ralph); Loch Tunnel (Reidy) 1 mile:—38.4; 1.13.2; 1.55.2; 2.23.3. Last quarter 31.

Macao Meeting.

The International Race Club of Macao has sent invitations to all Owners and Jockeys here to participate in their inaugural meeting on the 19th and 20th instant. Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Paterson, Messrs. Dunbar, Stanton, Pirie, Reidy, Brodie, Rosa, Ralph if he can get away and many others are, I understand, going over on Saturday morning by the 9 o'clock boat. About eight ponies have been sent from here amongst them being Regent, September, Sandpiper, Sandigo, and Howth. It is hoped that this meeting will be a success as no opportunity should be neglected to forge sporting links between neighbouring Colonies. Officials of the Hong Kong Jockey Club will, I feel sure, do all in their power to help, but it should be borne in mind that their standards are high as they are a purely sporting organisation.

HOCKEY.

CLUB LOSE FRIENDLY GAME.

Yesterday afternoon, the Hong Kong Hockey Club were defeated by the H.K.S.R.A. on the United Services Recreation Club Ground by three goals to two.

At half time the score stood at 1 nil against the Club, and in the second half, the Artillery piled up another two goals. The Club also scored two through Ballantyne and Lammert.

LAWN TENNIS.

U.S.R.C. TOURNAMENT.

The Annual "At Home" of the United Services Recreation Club will be held on the Club's grounds, Kowloon, on Thursday, March 3rd, when the current tennis tournament will be concluded. Only Finals will be played on that day. All ties including the semi-finals, are to be completed on or before Sunday, the 27th inst.

Of the ten events, all of which are reaching the concluding stages, only the Ladies Open Singles has reached the final at present. The finalists are Miss Robinson and Mrs. R. E. Tottenham who met last month at the Ladies' Recreation Club for the Open Singles Championship of the Colony for Ladies, which the former won by two sets to love, 6-3; 6-2.

BOXING.

IRON BUX—MORRIS MATCH OFF.

Stoker Norman Morris is still willing to box Iron Bux for the middleweight championship of the Colony and a side-stake of $500, but he is prevented from accepting Bux's challenge.

Morris, however, is willing to meet any welterweight or middleweight in Hong Kong, with a side-stake if necessary, under the auspices of the Hong Kong Boxing Association.

Bux did well locally as a bantam and feather-weight before going to Manila where increasing weight has put him in the heavier classes.

Morris won the middleweight championship of the Colony and Mr. R. M. Byer's belt at the last tournament by knocking out his shipmate, Able Seaman Ewin.

A TEN-ROUND CONTEST.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

Boston, February 15th.
 In a ten-round contest, Johnny Vacca out-pointed Fidel La Barba. There was no title involved.

La Barba received a left hook to the jaw in the first round to be knocked off his feet for the first time in his career. He arose and had hardly staggered to his feet after a count of nine, when a right smash floored him for a count of five. He had just recovered his balance when a left hook returned him to the canvas for another nine. There was the wildest excitement, and only ring-craft saved him time and again as Vacca rocked him with terrific punches.

[It will be remembered that Fidel La Barba recently defeated Elky Clark, the European title-holder, in a ten-round contest for the Fly-weight Championship of the world.]

POLE JUMP.

NEW INDOOR RECORD.

[THROUGH AMERICAN SERVICE.]

New York, February 15th.
 Sabin Carr, of Yale University, has broken the indoor pole-jump record, with 13 feet, 2 1/2 inches.

THE LEGITIMACY ACT.

YOUNG MOTHER'S APPLICATION UNDER NEW LAW.
 A young woman asked Mr. Bingley, the Marylebone magistrate, last month if he could have her child legitimised under the new Legitimacy Act, as since the child's birth she had married the father.

"To tell you the truth," replied Mr. Bingley, "I don't know if we have anything to do with the legitimacy of children."

The clerk said that the court had not received a copy of the new Act, and Mr. Bingley told the woman to renew her application in a week's time.

"The principal object of the Legitimacy Act, which came into force on January 1st, is the legitimisation of illegitimate children by the subsequent marriage of the parents provided that the parents were, in law, capable of marrying at the date of the birth of the child. Legitimation dates from January 1st or from the marriage, whichever happens last, and the provisions are not, therefore, retrospective."

SHANGHAI'S CHINESE.

FOOTBALLERS' LEAVE.

The East China football team from Shanghai returned by the a.s. Empress of Russia yesterday noon. The team was taken to the liner from Queen's Pier on a special launch hired by the Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation and officers of the Chung Hua Ti Yuk Wui, the South China Athletic Association, and other sporting organizations. The committee's launch accompanied the Empress part of the way out of the Harbour, cheers being exchanged from time to time and crackers fired.

YOUNGER PLAYERS FOR "TESTS."

LORD HAWKE ON 8-DAY CRICKET MATCHES.

AUSTRALIANS' CRITICISED.

Lord Hawke, president of the Yorkshire County Cricket Club, in his speech at the annual meeting at Leeds made many pointed and interesting criticisms regarding Test matches.

He said that the extension of time for the Test games appeared to be inevitable, but thought that the strongest ground of objection for any longer extension of days for Tests in this country was the general effect of the games.

"No doubt six-days cricket may be suitable in Australia, because of the climatic conditions and the comparatively small number of first-class matches," he said. "But there is no comparison of conditions prevailing here with those existing in Australia."

"Those who would subordinate all matches to the Tests had already gone so far as to endanger the turning of Test cricket into a fetish."

Referring to England's part in future tests, Lord Hawke said we had seriously to ask ourselves: "Was it well that the veterans of the game should have been the chief factors in our victory? It was up to England to give encouragement to the forthcoming trial matches to the younger players."

The general desire for a smaller ball he thought was sound in every respect. It would enable a bowler to get a better grip and impart more finger-accuracy. He would go a little further and allow a new ball to be used after each 100 runs.

Another important matter, said Lord Hawke, was the undue preparation of wickets. He favoured the natural grass wicket, but it was a difficult problem which could only be met, in his opinion, by instruction by the counties in the use of mallet.

Lord Hawke made a strong criticism of the proposed engagement of W. H. Ponsford and the Blackpool club. "It is a great pity that monetary considerations should be brought forward to take away from his country and from international cricket, for that is what it means, a player who has toured in this country."

"My sympathies are entirely with Australia, who are apparently trying to raise a large sum of money to keep this man at home. A cheque for £2,500, which had been raised by a testimonial fund, was handed by Mr. F. C. Toone, secretary of the club."

MR. BIRRELL'S 77TH BIRTHDAY.

ORIGIN OF MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S METAPHORS.

Mr. Augustine Birrell, essayist, raconteur, lawyer, and veteran Liberal statesman, the witliest and probably the most incompetent of Irish Secretaries. He walks with erect carriage, and retains the nimble wit that makes him one of the most entertaining of after-dinner speakers. Mr. Birrell was entertained by a large company to luncheon at the National Liberal Club, Whitehall, S.W. Afterwards, to a pressman, he said:

"Don't believe in after-dinner speeches, they are usually so dull, but people will have them. They still like to be talked at; they would sooner be bored to death than have no speech at all."

The debates in the modern House of Commons are wrapped in a cynical, parochial gloom nowadays. Talk never seems to get beyond the parish pump idea. Women M.P.s are quite harmless at present, there are only six of them; but they may be a nuisance yet."

Mr. Lloyd George learned his metaphors while poaching as a boy. He used to snare rabbits and catch fish and all sorts of things when he was a little fellow of 7 or 8. He was everything except his future. He always does the unexpected. As a young man he had spoken on a private Bill and, after being severely tanned by Gladstone, he turned to me, his face beaming with pride, and remarked: "The old man is quite a good debater."

WHERE SLAVERY STILL EXISTS.

PROBLEM OF MANDATORY TERRITORIES.

A SACRED TRUST FOR CIVILISATION.

Speaking on the subject of "mandates" at a meeting of the Stafford branch of the League of Nations Union, Miss Janet Stephens, a well-known worker for the League, said it would come as a shock to some people to know that there were still some three million slaves in the world, including two million in Abyssinia. There were 19 political areas in Africa and Asia where slavery was still extant. The nations were making a valiant attempt to stamp it out, but it was a difficult thing to do.

The mandatory system for the administration of ex-enemy Colonial territories was nothing more or less than a form of trusteeship, which would continue until such time as the country concerned had grown and developed to the extent that it could control its own affairs.

In the words of the Covenant it was a "sacred trust for civilisation" and it was laid down explicitly that the mandatory Powers were not to exploit those countries for their own benefit and to increase their own riches, but to govern and administer them in such a way that the natives eventually would be able to govern themselves.

Clash of Colour Problems.

In conclusion, Miss Stephens suggested that the difficulties arising from what had been described as the clash of colour or race problems—whether white and black could work on equal conditions, and whether the black man was entitled to receive the same rate of pay for the same work—would only be solved if they met them in the spirit of the League.

FALSE PRINCESS.

HOODWINKS GERMAN CITY.

"POOR DEAR KAISER."

The City of Erfurt has not only been fooled by a false prince as we related recently but also by a false princess. Royal experience in the life of Emma Barth, a cook of 41, was less glorious than that of Harry Dromela, who posed as a Hohenzollern and was received with royal honours in aristocratic circles in Coburg.

Emma Barth had been in the service of some aristocratic families during the last 15 years, and was once in the service of a genuine Hohenzollern at Potsdam.

She thus got some idea of the way in which great ladies behave. Being tired of cooking, she arrived at Erfurt as Princess Margaret of Prussia, niece of the ex-Kaiser.

She played the part very well and got credit in the hotel and in the shops, while a wealthy man, who was fascinated by the idea of a royal romance, was vanquished by her somewhat mature charms.

Admiral Buys Frocks.

She talked sadly of the reduced circumstances in which the poor dear Kaiser and the rest of the family found themselves. The wealthy man gave her fine frocks in which she made a figure in the houses of a number of eminent and respectable families in Erfurt.

Some busybody, however, raised the suspicions of the police, and the false Princess Margaret is now languishing in an Erfurt prison. The false prince is to be tried at Weimar. It is thought that he will escape with a light sentence, because most of the persons whom he victimised are so mortified that they will not bring charges against him. It is understood that a film is to be made of his adventures.

The lecture was given under the patronage of the American Ambassador, the Hon. Peter Augustus Jay, and H.B.M. Minister, Sir Malcolm Robertson, and among those present was the Russian Minister, M. Eugene Steip.

In the course of the address, Captain McCullagh said: In one of the foreign Legations at Moscow there is a sound rule that the members of the Mission must leave Russia in turn on holiday once every six months or so, in order to get a breath of fresh air in some comparatively sane country. I call it a "sound rule," for as I shall do my best to make clear in a few moments, things in Russia are still in so topsy-turvy a condition that a long, uninterrupted residence there tends to effect one's nerves, and a diplomatist who loses his nerve in time of peace is as useless to his country as a soldier who loses his nerve in time of war.

Lenin's Gloomy Tyranny Compared to the Incas.

I never expected that anything I would see in this young continent would remind me of the vast and gloomy tyranny which Lenin has erected in Moscow a tyranny which, though only nine years old, has already acquired all the worst features of ancient despots.

In this expectation I have been mistaken, for I have been in Mexico, which is fast following Red Russia to the abyss, and in Peru and Bolivia I have seen sights that I recalled the Red Republic to which I was trying for the moment to forget, that reminded me of the goal towards which the Bolsheviks were travelling fast when I first became acquainted with them during the awful period of the Red Terror. Those sights, I hasten to add, had nothing to do with present conditions in Peru or Bolivia; they belonged to that past age when those two countries, together with Ecuador and part of Chile, formed a great pagan Empire ruled, from Cuzco by the Incas; they were in fact the ancient monuments of that mysterious, socialist empire, monuments which are very plentiful both in Bolivia and Peru. I have seen many of these monuments myself, and they always reminded me of the Soviet State which has been built up in Moscow by the Maxists, of the utter Paganism inherent in the theory of that State, and of the extreme Communist programme which it intends to carry out.

Lenin the Protagonist of Retrogression.

At first sight it seems absurd to institute a comparison between this Russian Republic of the 20th century, and the Peruvian Empire of the 16th century, but both Governments are Pagan, and though the form of Paganism is different you will be surprised at the similarity of the effects. The Government cannot repudiate Christianity or the principles founded on Christianity without bringing back some very undesirable features of Paganism. Japan may seem to contradict this theory, but a residence of four years in Japan showed me that, though that country is not Christian, it is governed on principles which are a product of Christianity. What calls itself progress is sometimes retrogression. Lenin thought he had got a thousand years ahead of everybody else, whereas he had in some respects gone back four thousand years to the era of Nineveh and Babylon. It is true that Russia uses electric light, but this is an accident, a non-essential thing. In Russia during the last nine years this light has illuminated scenes of savagery worthy of Nero's Rome.

Centralised Despotism.

Russia regards itself as the last word in republics, but that does not prevent its government from being as little democratic as the government of the Incas. The Bolsheviks themselves admit that their party numbers only 350,000 persons, and of these not more than a few hundred constitute the controlling force. In fact it might be said that the controlling force resides in a bureau, called the Political Bureau of the Communist Party; and even in this bureau there is always one dominant figure. At first that figure was Lenin. Now it is Stalin. As for the 120 million people outside the Communist party, they are not allowed to take any real part in the Government. The Kremlin is for them what Cuzco was for the vast, mysterious, Super-State speaking to the people from behind a veil, enforcing the orders with relentless cruelty, and seeming to regard itself as a divine entity, immortal, omniscient, and infallible, rather than a group of ordinary men. But where the Peruvians regarded the Incas as beneficent deities, the average "muzzik" regards the Soviet Government as nothing less than Antichrist, the Red Dragon of the Apocalypse.

Lenin was as ignorant of real Christianity as Atahualpa, and possessed by the way, an equally in-European type of face. There is a great deal of Tartar blood in Russia, and Lenin was born on the frontier of Asia, in a district of south-western Russia which was ruled by the Tartars till the time of Ivan the Terrible, and still contains some of those fierce nomads.

The last occasion on which I saw this great revolutionary chief was some months before his death when he attended a Communist meeting in Moscow. Disbelieving in a life beyond the grave, he said: "Let us make our Paradise here in Russia, without the assistance of any religion, without the hope of any hereafter."

Panic Stricken Refugees.

Ladies and gentlemen, I have been in that Paradise, and I was glad to get out of it. It looked more like the other place. Ever since the Bolshevik revolution I have been most of my time inside that Paradise, or else outside on the frontier when the inside became too hot for me; and I remember that there used to occur a periodical rush across this frontier, not in the direction of this earthly Paradise but in the opposite direction: a rush was caused by people getting out. Mothers fled without their babies, artisans without their tools, students without their books, short-sighted men without their spectacles. I have had experience of twenty-two years, but never did I see refugees in such a condition of terror. It was like a stampede out of a burning out. "Surely," I said to myself, "some diabolical shame must be sitting on the throne of the dead Czar."

A Strange Personality.

But to return to Lenin. The illness from which he suffered on the occasion of which I speak, had emphasised the Mongolic traits in that terrible face, the high cheek bones; striking sallowness; the unusually square and powerful jaw; the eyes far apart, small, and sunken; the curiously shaped skull; the scanty jet-black beard. I had an excellent opportunity for close observation, and I think that I made good use of it; but if any of you wish to see that face for himself, he can still do so, for it is visible through the glass lid of the coffin wherein Lenin lies embalmed. That coffin rests inside a vast and sinister mausoleum built outside the Kremlin wall and lighted internally by electricity.

The Soviet Republic of Lenin bears more than a mere superficial resemblance to the Socialistic Empire of the Incas. From the pages of Garcilaso de la Vega and the other Spanish writers to whom we are indebted for all we know about the ancient Peru, we learn that the Incas were everything, and the people nothing.

Slavery.

In February, 1920, I was in the town of Ekaterinburg at the same time as Trotsky, and I saw that he practised what he preached. He mobilised great masses of men for various kinds of work, factory work, railway work, mining, etc., without ever once asking those men what their private preferences were. Some of them may have been poets, others may have been painters, but Communism is mass-action which cannot take individual cases into account.

In European Russia at the same time a regular man-hunt was being carried on after mechanics and other skilled workers who had fled from the nationalised factories to the villages where they had taken up farming or opened little repair-shops of their own. Those refugees were hounded down by the soldiery exactly as if they had deserted from the army.

Now, this is nothing less than slavery, slavery camouflaged by all sorts of revolutionary verbiage; nevertheless slavery in the literal sense of the dreadful word, the sense it had in pre-Christian times. And in my opinion slavery to the Soviet is a much more grievous matter than slavery to a Roman patrician ever was, for, no matter how corrupt he might be, a Roman patrician had a heart, whereas that godless abstraction, the Soviet Government, has none. A Government cannot repudiate Christianity without bringing back some very undesirable features of Paganism; and one of these very undesirable features which has come back in Russia is slavery. In Russia, and only about sixty years ago, there were many Russians now alive who were born serfs, and in the 9th century, the time of Charlemagne, the vast majority of Europeans were serfs. It took Christianity full a thousand years to do away with slavery, so deeply was it rooted, and finally it succeeded in doing so, not by direct prohibition, but by the creation of an atmosphere wherein that foul Pagan spirit withered and died. And now, destroying the Bolsheviks succeed in destroying that Christian atmosphere, slavery again raises its head.

ALSATIAN'S BITE INQUEST.

DOG IN COURT.

GRAVE ALLEGATION AGAINST OWNER.

To allow a woman witness to be called to bear out an allegation that Mme. Jullien, of Addlestone, Surrey, ordered an Alsatian dog to frighten some children from a field with the result that a boy was bitten and later died from lock-jaw, the inquest on the boy, John Alfred Brown, 10, was adjourned by Mr. Oswald, the Marylebone coroner.

Mme. Jullien is a breeder of Alsatian dogs. The animal concerned in the case entered the court carrying a shopping basket in his mouth. He was followed by his mistress. He went into the jury-box and sat there.

Dr. R. A. Graff, house physician at Middlesex Hospital, said that the boy was admitted five days after the bite suffering from lock-jaw. The antitetanus serum treatment proved too late to save him. The wound was shallow, not extending to the muscle.

Mr. Oswald: If a dog had been digging a hole in the ground and putting its nose into and perhaps getting its teeth touched with the dirt, would it be possible, if there was tetanus in the earth, to communicate it to a person by the dog biting the person?—Yes.

Mr. J. C. C. Gately (for Mme. Jullien): A dog bite is not in itself dangerous, is it?—Not unless it is infected. Tetanus following a dog bite is not a common combination. Mme. Jullien, who elected to give evidence, took the dog towards the coroner, who said: "This is a fine animal," and stepped down from his desk to pat him. He fondled his head, and then, with the aid of Mme. Jullien, examined the dog's teeth. She said she called the dog Fitz, and added that he was not fierce.

Goy With Strangers.

Mme. Jullien then ordered Fitz to lie down, and he remained quiet while she entered the witness-box. Mr. Oswald: You have seen a good deal of talk in the papers lately about their treacherous nature. What do you think about that?—I don't think they are. You say he is rather coy about greeting strangers—I think on the whole Alsatians are rather standoffish. They are so devoted to their own people that they won't have anything to do with other people.

A Wolf Cross.

Mr. Gately: Is it not true that two or three months ago the Alsatian League had brought to their notice that certain experiments were being made by people who were crossing wolves with Alsatians—I had one of those dogs sent to me. The father was a wolf from Wembley and the mother was a very beautiful Alsatian.

You have not got that dog now?—Oh, no. It was only sent to me to look after. It was the most awful brute I ever struck.

What sort of an animal was it? Was it fierce?—Oh, no; it was most cowardly, nervous, and shy, and would only come out at night. Questioned by Mr. C. Haddon Gray (for the dead boy's father), Mme. Jullien agreed that this dog was trained in Germany.

Mr. Gray: You have heard of the expression "Trained to attack"? These dogs are trained to attack, are they not?—Some are.

If you told that dog to attack me it would immediately attack me?—Yes.

It would tear me to pieces?—No, it would not; that is where you make a mistake when you are talking about a trained dog.

Mr. Gray said he wished to show that Mme. Jullien had displayed animus towards the children, and added, "I am going to ask whether she did not give a signal for that dog to go back and drive the children out of the field."

Attack Signal Denied.

"No, I absolutely deny it," exclaimed Mme. Jullien. Mr. Gray complained that the woman who accompanied Mme. Jullien in the field had not been called to give evidence. "I contend that she would substantiate what I have said," he continued. "I allege that the dog was perfectly docile until Mme. Jullien gave the words for it to back."

Mme. Jullien: I would never dream of setting the dog to attack children; it is absolutely incredible and a wicked suggestion. I think it is a very cruel attack that has been made.

Mr. Gray again pressed for the woman with Mme. Jullien to be called.

Mr. Oswald: It was within your power to bring any witness you chose.

Mr. Gray: I did not know that, but I have a reason for making this request—a reason which I am not at liberty to give now. I think, however, her evidence will be very material. The information which has come to me is that she will confirm what I said, that she heard the signal given.

PEER'S HEIR SENT TO CAOL.

FALSE PRETENCES AND THEFT.

VICTIM OF STROKE AND MALARIA.

The heir of Lord Haldon, the Hon. Laurence Edward Broomfield Palk, 30, described as a clerk, was charged on remand at Marylebone Police Court in the name of Laurence Ray, under a warrant dated June 13th, 1925, with obtaining by false pretences from Mr. Stanley Parnell, £3 10s, at Portchester-road, Baywater, W.

There was a further charge of larceny as a bailee of an attaché case and samples, valued at £3 8s 6d, belonging to Mr. Stewart Longford, of Dean-street, 'Soho, W. Mr. Pedler, for Palk, said that he had instructed him to plead guilty to both charges.

Detective-Sergeant M. C. Taggart said that Palk lived with his mother in Portchester-road until May 1925. The linen draper's business in the premises below was owned by Mr. Parnell. Palk told Mr. Parnell that his mother had sent him a cheque for £3 10s, and asked him to cash it. Mr. Parnell did so. The cheque was returned from the bank, and Mr. Parnell communicated with Lady Haldon, who said that the signature on the cheque was not hers.

Mr. Bingley (magistrate): Why was that warrant never executed? This young man disappeared. As far as we know he had gone to Burham-on-Crouch, where his mother was residing. The police there were informed, but he could not be found. He has been roaming about ever since, out of work more or less. He might then have been prosecuted for forgery?—Yes.

Mr. Pedler said that he had given serious consideration to the position of Palk.

Future Legislator.

Mr. Bingley: He is just like anybody else before me. Mr. Pedler: Yes, although he is one of the future legislators of our land.

Mr. Bingley: I have got nothing to do with that.

Mr. Pedler said Palk was destitute at the time that he signed his mother's name to the cheque, and he thought his mother would honour it. Every effort had been made for him, and he had made efforts himself time and again. He had tried his hand as an actor, as a farmer in Kenya, as an engineer in Brazil, and he had worked with the Church Army for a year, but as a result of sunstroke and malaria, which he had twice in the army, he had never been the same man since. "He has come down and down and down, and now he is destitute," said counsel.

Previous Conviction.

Det.-Sgt. McTaggart said that Palk was sentenced to three months in the second division in 1922 for stealing.

Mr. Bingley (reading from the record): Stealing blankets, sheets, and clothing. The value of the property was £340. He was engaged as a caretaker for a month and during that time he pawned the property and absconded on the last day. If he had been a first offender I was prepared to deal with him as such. Much as I regret it I consider it is my duty that this man should go to prison for two months in the second division on each of these charges—that is, consecutively, four months in all.

TOWN OFFICES AS TRAINING SCHOOL.

Every month the Birmingham municipality loses promising officials who are offered appointments by other public authorities and private enterprises because of the high reputation which the corporation has for selecting men of unusual ability and affording them the best experience in efficient administrative work.

Most of them are young men who hold university degrees or sit for examinations while serving the city. The older men do not move so readily. There have, for instance, been only three chief clerks in the town clerk's department in 125 years, the first of them holding office for half a century and his successor for 46 years.

A Grave Assertion.

Mr. Oswald: Do you know that if you can prove that anyone maliciously set a dog on to a boy and as a result of a bite he died, that that may lead to the grave charge of murder—constructive murder? I don't know whether you appreciate that?

Mr. Gray: I shall say she sent the dog back not necessarily to bite them, but I do say she sent it back to frighten them out of the field.

Mr. Oswald said that in view of the grave statements he would have to adjourn the case and summon a jury. He asked Mr. Gray who was the woman that required summoning and he replied, "Miss Peter."

The hearing was adjourned.

RASH ON BABY'S HEAD AND FACE.

Troublesome at Night. Healed by Cuticura.

"My baby was troubled a lot with a rash on her head and face. At times it was so bad that you could not get her to keep a bonnet on, and she used to scratch until it would bleed. I was very troublesome at night, causing her to be restless, and she lost many a night's sleep."

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using it an improvement was noticeable. I purchased more and in a short time she was healed."
